WOMAN FACES MURDER CHARGE

Held In Connection With Death of Sixth Husband.

ALLEGED TO HAVE CONFESSED

Arrest Made After Husband's Body Had Been Exhumed and Traces of Poison. Reported Found in Vital Organs—No Motive or Mention of Accomplice Made in Alleged Confession, Prosecutor Says.

Mt. Gilead, O., July 16.—County Prosecutor T. B. Mateer indicated that a charge of first degree murder would be filed against Mrs. Elhona Yeomans, 39, of Cardington, O., who is being held in jail here pending investigation of the death of her late husband, Lewis Yeomans, 43.

Mrs. Yeomans is said to have been married seven times. Yeoman died June 28, last. He had been in such good health up until the time of his death that the attending physician refused to sign a certificate stating a cause of death until an investigation was conducted.

County officials started an investigation and ordered the dead man's body exhumed. This was done last Friday at Glendale cemetery in Cardington and the vital organs were sent to Columbus for analysis. A preliminary report of the examination made by Dr. C. F. Smith of the state department of health showed traces of poison in the man's body, according to Prosecutor Mateer.

The Yeomans were married last February and made their home in Cardington. Yeoman was her sixth husband, she having married one of her earlier husbands twice, according to county officials.

Prosecutor Mateer announced later that Mrs. Yeoman confessed that she administered poison to her husband. In the alleged confession Mrs. Yeoman admitted killing her husband, but failed to state a motive or mention an accomplice.

Cardington officials told of mysterious letters received by the woman and other letters mailed by her. Just a few days after her marriage to Yeoman, Prosecutor Mateer said, the woman went to the Cardington postoffice and rented a box under the name of "N. B. Snyder." Once while the woman's husband was at work, a stranger appeared in the village and excited curiosity by standing in front of the postoffice until, witnesses told the prosecutor, Mrs. Yeoman met the stranger and they walked away together, talking earnestly. All letters sent by the woman, postoffice officials at Cardington told the prosecutor, were addressed to Harry McMonigal, at Detroit. McMonigal was a former husband of the woman, the prosecutor said. A few days after Yeoman's death, the prosecutor related, McMonigal came to Cardington and remained for three or four days.

FUNDS SOUGHT

Labor Asked to Finance the LaFollette Campaign.

Washington, July 16.—Officials of the conference for progressive political action, which endorsed Senator LaFollette's independent candidacy for the presidency at its Cleveland convention, sent out an appeal to national labor organizations for financial aid. Each group was urged to make an immediate contribution, to be used in defraying preliminary campaign expenses and to aid in the solicitation of funds from individuals in their organizations.

Plans for raising an adequate campaign fund, chiefly by small contributions from those in the working class, will be laid before the conference's national committee when it meets here Friday to select a vice presidential candidate and perfect campaign plans. The committee probably will call upon LaFollette in a body to exchange greetings.

Debs For LaFollette.

Chicago, July 16.—Eugene V. Debs formally declared himself for Robert M. LaFollette for the presidency and urged all members of the Socialist party to support the Wisconsin senator's candidacy. It is the first formal statement to be made by the veteran leader of the Socialist party since the organization decided, at its Cleveland convention, to put no national party ticket in the field this fall.

President Coolidge appointed Fred T. Dubois, former senator from Idaho, to be a member of the international boundary commission between the United States and Canada.

Gas Companies at Columbus Are Refused Rate Increase.

Columbus, July 16.—City council unanimously rejected the application of the Columbus Gas and Fuel company for a 10-cent increase per 1,000 cubic feet in the price of gas distributed in Columbus by the two companies. The rejection came after a conference between council sitting as a committee of the whole on the gas rate question, and L. B. Denning, president of the Columbus Gas and Fuel company and spokesman for the two companies. The matter came to a vote after Denning, invited to prove to council why the increase should be granted, offered nothing to support the request of the companies. The gas companies will not negotiate with council on any other basis, according to Denning, who, when the unanimous action of council was taken, folded his brief case and left the meeting.

DAVIS CONFERS WITH LEADERS

Collecting Ideas for His Speech of Acceptance.

PLAN STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN

Democrats to Open Headquarters at New York, Chicago and San Francisco—Davis to Deliver His Broadside at Clarksburg, His Old Home. National Committee Chairmanship Not Selected.

New York, July 16.—Democratic campaign headquarters are to be opened at New York, Chicago and San Francisco, it was announced here.

John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee for president, has been in conference with party leaders from all sections of the country since his selection, at which campaign plans have been discussed. Davis is now busy collecting ideas for the first political broadside to be delivered when he receives notification of the nomination at his old home in Clarksburg, W. Va. The Democrats plan to gain the jump on the Republicans as the present program calls for the acceptance speech to be made a week prior to the Coolidge speech of acceptance. The president will be notified at Washington Aug. 14.

The task of selecting a chairman of the Democratic national committee is still holding up the movements of the Democratic machine. In an interview Davis said he had made no personal selection for the post. He showed his readiness to accept Frank L. Polk by saying, "Frank's a good man." Polk has repeatedly said he did not care to head the Democratic campaign, although willing to be one of the active workers.

The New York machine was welded into shape for the coming campaign when Tammany Hall selected George W. Olvany as leader of the wigwag forces.

Davis will spend the week in New York maintaining his conferences with party leaders at the home of Frank L. Polk. Friday he will gather up the ideas he has gained from these conferences and retire to the home of Charles Dana Gibson at Dark Harbor, Me., where he will draft his speech of acceptance.

AMERICANS WIN

Girl Swimmers Finish One, Two and Three in Finals.

Paris, July 16.—American girl swimming stars finished one, two, three in the finals of the 400-meter free style event in the Olympic championships. Martha Norelius won the event, with Helen Wainwright second and Gertrude Ederle third.

The United States 8-oared crew, which is the Yale eight that beat Harvard last month on the Thames, won its heat in the rowing at Argenteuil, with Canada second and Holland third.

In the 1,500-meter swim for men, in which no Americans qualified for the finals, Charleston of Australia set a new world's record when he won the event from Arneborg of Sweden. The new record time was 20 minutes and 6 3-5 seconds.

In the double sculls at Argenteuil, the United States won the first heat from France. The American's time was 6 minutes and 30 seconds; the French 6 minutes and 52 seconds.

Would Conscript Fire Fighters. San Francisco, July 16.—The Klammath and Sierra national forests were added to the zones of the California forest fire menace. Minor fires in those two forests have spread to serious proportions. In the meantime, the fire in the Santa Barbara forest of southern California continued to defy efforts of fire fighting crews, numbering now 1,500 men. In the Tapo forest a little progress was being made against flames on the forest divide. Forestry officials met at New Haven, Cal., proposed a scale conscription of campers to fight the flames and suggested closing of all national forests within the state. Already 250 men have been "conscripted" in Los Angeles.

Slain With Ax. Dallas, Tex., July 16.—The body of Alexander A. Bevacqua, 45, head of the Dallas Sand and Gravel company, was found under a bridge near here. Police say he had been killed by a blow from an ax, and his body transported for some distance. Bevacqua recently assisted Canadian officers in locating an Italian, who was later deported to Italy to face trial.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Third of Relief Fund Raised.

Columbus, July 16.—It was announced by Chairman Miller of the storm relief commission that more than one-third of the $600,000 asked for the rehabilitation of Lorain and the storm-swept area of northern Ohio has been raised. Compilation by the commission of gifts thus far made showed $201,937 subscribed. Engineers of the national guard now working in Lorain may be assigned to assist farmers in cleaning up wreckage in farm sections. Forty prisoners from the penitentiary also will be sent to Lorain county to assist farmers in cleaning up.

Young Pheasants Killed.

Columbus, July 16.—Hundreds of young pheasants were killed at the state game farm at Wellington during the month of June because of the excessive rainfall, according to a statement from D. O. Thompson, head of the state fish and game department. However, despite the loss 7,000 birds have been distributed and that more will be sent to every county in the state during the summer.

No Special Session.

Toledo, July 16.—No special session of the legislature will be called to appropriate funds for Lorain and other storm stricken sections. The legislature has no fund to expend as it desires, declared Robert Dunn, speaker of the general assembly, in response to a letter to Paul M. Herbert of Columbus, suggesting the special session.

Woman Teller Held.

Cleveland, July 16.—According to the police, Miss Marie Perrin, 42, bank teller, admitted embezzling $10,000 from the bank in which she was employed. Miss Perrin, police say, told them that she had been using money for four years in keeping up an account in the stock market.

Ford's Contribution.

Lorain, O., July 16.—Donation of $10,000 to the Lorain relief fund by Henry Ford, Detroit auto manufacturer, was announced in a telegram from his secretary, E. G. Liebold, to the Lorain Red Cross. He is donating in the name of his company.

Drop in Car Fare Likely.

Cincinnati, July 16.—Cincinnati's streetcar fare may drop from 10 to 7½ cents. The cut will come if council and the traction company are able to draft the new franchise and have it passed without further disagreement.

Indorse LaFollette.

Youngstown, O., July 16.—Members of the United Labor congress here pledged themselves as individuals to indorse and support the candidacy of Senator Robert M. LaFollette for president.

Woman Hangs Herself.

Warren, O., July 16.—The body of Mrs. Sarah P. Walker, 66, was found hanging from the stairway of her home. She had fastened a rope about her neck, tied it on the banister and jumped over. She lived alone.

Fall Waives Hearing.

El Paso, Tex., July 16.—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, waived preliminary hearing when arraigned in federal court here on indictments growing out of the naval reserve oil leases.

FOUR PROVINCES UNDER WATER

RESULT OF INCESSANT RAINS

Thousands of Lives Reported Lost and Property Damage Runs Into the Millions—Cities of Peking and Tientsin Threatened by Breaking Dykes Along the River—Railroads Destroyed by Landslides.

Pekin, July 16.—Prolonged rains have created havoc in several Chinese provinces, where floods and landslides have occurred.

Hundreds of villages have been destroyed in the Honan, Hunan, Anhui and Kiangsi provinces, and thousands of lives are reported lost. Heavy financial losses have been incurred throughout the western part of the country. Peking itself is practically isolated, except for the Tien Tsin railway line, which is threatened with inundation.

The entire business district of Kalgan, the westernmost rail head of China, was destroyed, and the railroad at this point buried under landslides and debris. Some lives have been lost there, and the property loss runs into millions of dollars. All foreigners are reported safe.

The city of Peking is threatened by breaking dykes along the mountain river to the eastward, where soldiers are toiling day and night at constant repairs. Tientsin is at present not flooded, but this is only being prevented by the efforts of an army of coolies working at the dykes. Engineers propose drastic measures to save the city, suggesting cutting some of the dykes and permitting the water to overflow into the low rice lands between Tientsin and Peking.

The railroad lines running between Peking and Hankow and between Peking and Sui Yan are both without traffic. The floods were worst in the four provinces, Honan, Hunan, Anhui and Kiangsi, each of which reported the wiping out of hundreds of villages and terrible loss of life.

GRAIN CONCERNS TO BE TAKEN OVER

Merger to Be Farmer Owned and Operated.

Chicago, July 16.—Farmers of the country, through their co-operative selling agencies, have purchased five leading grain concerns. The five firms are: Armour Grain corporation, Rosenbaum Grain corporation, J. C. Shaffer & Company, Rosenbaum Brothers, all of Chicago, and the Davis, Noland, Merrill company of Kansas City.

The new company has been capitalized at $20,000,000 and will start functioning immediately, handling the grain crops now coming to market. The purchase of the five companies gives the new organization control of 50,000,000 bushels of elevator space at strategic points. Farmers are now enabled to market as well as to produce grain, sponsors of the purchase plan stated.

The executive officials of the big grain companies included in the merger have offered to run the merged company for five years and instruct the growers in the handling of grain. The executives, according to their plan, will work on a salary basis, the new company being run by a board of directors with the farmers in control of two-thirds of the directorate. On the board it is planned to have men representing the elevator companies, grain dealers, bankers and railroads.

Carried Eight Passengers.

Chicago, July 16.—An all-metal airplane, carrying eight passengers, made a test trip between Detroit and Chicago. The 225 miles were covered in 3 hours. William B. Stout, pilot, gave some demonstrations here and later took off for Detroit.

Urbaytis Recovering.

Columbus, July 16.—Joseph Urbaytis, Toledo postoffice bandit, who was shot by local detectives May 6 while effecting his capture, was reported by hospital officials as almost recovered. Urbaytis probably will be taken to Toledo next week.

BUTLER AN AIDE

Coolidge to Be the Real Manager of His Campaign.

Washington, July 16.—President Coolidge will be the real manager of his campaign for re-election and William M. Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee, personal and political mentor of the president, will be his chief assistant. The "advisory board," which C. Bascom Slempp, secretary to the president, said would have the "real management" of the campaign, is to be a "shifting body," with no set personnel. These facts were brought out by an official white house spokesman in outlining plans for the Republican campaign.

Tentative arrangements for the campaign call for a few speeches in person by the president and a somewhat greater number over the radio. The east will be Mr. Coolidge's principal "stamping grounds," and he is not expected at any time to get further west than the Mississippi river. For the most part, however, a white house back porch campaign will be conducted.

Says Piracy Exists.

New York, July 16.—The existence of an organized system of piracy on rum row, off the coasts of Long Island and New Jersey was revealed, by a United States government agent, who confirmed the report made at an inquiry in Halifax, N. S., by the captain of the French steamer Mulhouse. He substantiated the captain's story of a raid on his ship off the New Jersey shore by a band of 40 heavily armed men. The government agent has gathered his data in anticipation of a demand for information by the state department to satisfy possible French demands.

FARMERS WILL BENEFIT

Present Grain Rates May Reach Higher Levels.

Chicago, July 16.—B. W. Snow, crop expert, says prosperity is dawning for American farmers, especially in the wheat and corn growing states. Present high grain prices are based on sound economic conditions and will continue to even higher levels, Snow declared. They are not caused by government or political manipulation, he said. The American wheat crop this year is only three-fourths the size of the 1923 crop, Snow estimated, and with small surplus stocks on hand, the law of supply and demand is certain to bring higher prices. While Snow refused to estimate the increased value of this year's major crops, the financial district believes farmers will benefit to the extent of between $750,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 more than last year.

Actress Fined.

Chicago, July 16.—Rosetta Duncan, musical comedy star, who alleges that a policeman of Cicero, a suburb, broke her nose in trying to arrest her July Fourth, was fined $1 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct. Her brother, Harold, whose arrest for a violation of an automobile ordinance led to the altercation, was fined $2 and costs when he pleaded guilty to that charge and $1 and costs for disorderly conduct.

AN ENGAGEMENT WELL RECEIVED

By MYRTA DAVIES

(© 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

PAULINE had been engaged more times than all the rest of the girls in town put together. Then along came Ez Dustin—dark, big, quiet (apparently)—a new local manager of the telegraph and telephone company.

For the first time in Pauline's engaging young life, it looked as if she was stage struck, spellbound, call it what you will.

"Clever miss!" sighed the young married women who saw Pauline's faults as well as her virtues. "Contrast with the other girls is what she's working for. Can you beat it? But you don't see Ez Dustin falling for her, do you?"

It was true. It looked as if either the fame of the little philanthropist's doings had reached young Dustin's canny ears and made him wary.

One day it would be Ruth Larkin, escorted to the theater in the Dustin runabout, another day it would be Molly Roads who hiked over the hills with him, and so on, until, to be frank, the whole town had to confess that there wasn't a girl in the place except Pauline Phelps to whom Ezra Dustin had not shown some delightful attention.

Even little pink-haired Mary Saunders had twice been taken to dances by Ezra—Mary who had never been anywhere much. But Pauline sat on the sidelines, or trotted about, very seldom, though—and primly, with the nice boys she had been engaged to, and somehow it seemed she had lost all the zest of the great game she knew so amazingly well.

Then with the speed of a prairie express, the news spread through the town that Ezra was engaged to marry Ruth. Ruth herself did not deny the report, and certain it was that on the Saturday night dance program she let the handsome stranger have fully three-fourths of the dances. The town was thrilled. This particular thrill lasted till the Centre lawn party, when Ezra danced attention to Molly like a medieval gallant, and the next day Molly appeared with a blazing stone, presumably a diamond, set in silvery stuff, presumably platinum. This thrill lasted until Molly stopped wearing the ring, and little Mary began to go driving with Ezra every evening and to get pinker and prettier.

Meantime, Ezra succeeded in doing good work for the Tel. & Tel. offices, and six months after the beginning of his campaign as company manager and knight of the town, he was promoted to the position of company manager in the next city. The question was, would he accept and, if he did, whom would he take with him?

Ezra accepted, and for several weeks before leaving town, as far as onlookers could discern, attended strictly to telegraph and telephone business. During those weeks Ruth announced her engagement to the local dentist. Molly told quite frankly that the ring had been a joke, and had cost exactly ten cents, and little Mary and Pauline held their peace. Moreover, they held it together. They got more and more intimate, walked together, drove together, shopped and embroidered together, and what they talked together for some time goodness only knew.

When it all did come out, talk about thrills! It was one of the most thrilling thrills that had ever struck the place, because nobody had suspected it. The whole story was revealed at the farewell party the Tel. & Tel. folks gave in honor of their enterprising young manager.

During the evening Ezra punctiliously danced with every girl in the hall, cutting in gallantly, and including even Pauline and Mary in his attentions. At the close of the evening the Tel. & Tel. company presented Ezra with a monogrammed gold pencil, and Ezra, after expressing his thanks, spoke a few words in addition.

"Friends!" he said, laughing frankly, "you all know I've been acting the flirt since I've been here among you. It's natural as breathing. Always has been."

"Just like Pauline!" The townfolks nudged one another. Dustin caught the whisper.

"Exactly," he smiled. "Just like Miss Pauline Phelps, and neither of us has ever meant any harm, but from the time I met Pauline two years ago (eyes got bigger) at the shore, all during our most interesting correspondence (eyes popping wide) up to the present moment, we have both been sure that when the time came for us to go on our honeymoon together we'd be through with flirtation and ready to settle down in something pretty close to bliss with each other."

The town gasped.

"Pauline stopped flirting before I did," grinned Ezra. "She played the demure game and got away with it, I think. We thought it would be fun to keep you all guessing. Oh, by the way, Mary Saunders is my cousin. Come here, Mary, and make your bow. Come, Pauline, don't let the man do all the talking. Come to see us, everybody. We'll try to give you a good time."

Pauline smiled demurely. She felt demure, confiding, adoring.

"I hate to leave you all," she said, "I love you so."

And at that instant all the town's liking for the pretty little flirt added to itself a whole-hearted love that forswore every former engagement, and said, "Glory be!" to the last one.

The Century Plant

The belief that the century plant blooms every 100 years is a myth, according to Pathfinder Magazine. The flowering of this interesting plant depends upon the climate and rapidity of growth. In warm climates such as Mexico and Central America, the original home of the century plants, they grow rapidly and usually bloom about the seventh of eighth year, seldom later than the twelfth. In colder climates the period before bloom is much longer. Some authorities say that in hot houses 80 to 100 years may elapse before the plant flowers, a fact which probably gave rise to the century myth from which the plant gets its popular name. After flowering the century plant dies down to the ground. However, new plants arise from lateral buds.

Flowers of the Desert

Arizona deserts have their own flowers. In places the supply is abundant, the growth large, the flowers when in bloom of marked beauty, the big yucca and the sotol, both members of the lily family, showing beautiful bloom on tall and stately stalks.

One of the interesting desert growths is the water cactus, so named because its great stalk, from five to ten feet high and as large in circumference as a barrel. It has a heavy pulpy covering from which it is possible to squeeze goodly amounts of water, and Indians and travelers are quick to turn to the cactus when water supplies are short, says the Detroit News.

I am no longer . . . clerk to the firm of, etc.; I am Retired Leisure. I am to be met with in trim gardens. I am already come to be known by my vacant face and careless gesture, perambulating at no fixed pace nor with any settled purpose. I walk about, not to and from. They tell me a certain cum-dignitate air that has been buried so long with my other good parts has begun to shoot forth in my person. I perceptibly grow into gentility.—Charles Lamb.

A Keats Phrase

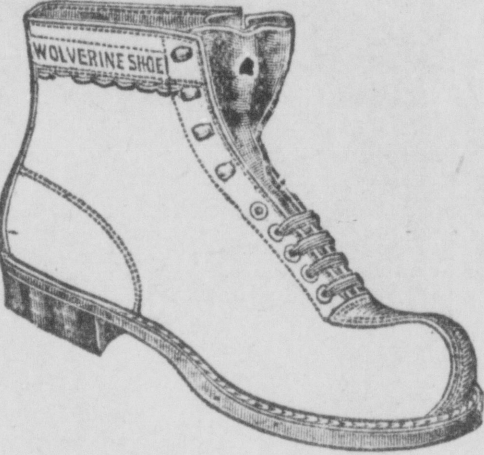

"Here are sweet peas," he said, "on tip-toe for a flight"—a phrase which will give grace, better than water, to your garden. For words make the world grow—not, I think, because they express a feeling, for that means that they relieve you of it, but because they give to the feeling a locality and distinct body. It comes down like dew out of the general air and alights here in a bright drop.—Max Eastman.

Cold Water Purifier

Place a pitcher of cold water on a table in your room and it will absorb all impurities in the air. In a few hours a pitcher or pail of cold water—the colder the more effective—will make the air of a room pure, but the water will be entirely unfit for use.

HERRICK
DRY AIR SYSTEM
REFRIGERATOR
The Big Difference In Refrigerators
The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn’t increase your ice bills.
The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.
And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.
Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—
No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
No. 2. Effective insulation.
No. 3. Air-tight construction.
That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.
Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

Aimed for Fair Play and No Favors

By CLARA DELAFIELD
(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

“FANNY, listen,” said Clara to me in a high state of excitement. “D’you know what’s happened since you came back from summer camp? Why, Henry Doremus is back from Harvard, and gone into his father’s law business!”

“Interesting, but not thrilling,” I replied.

“Not, isn’t it? Do you realize that that young man’s going to inherit a cool million dollars some day, and that we three are practically the only eligible girls in town? Well, Milly and I are going to have a shot at him.”

“Wishing you luck,” I said.

“Ah, come off, Fanny! You know you’d die of joy if you thought you had a chance at him. Now listen. We want to go in for him, fair play and no favors.”

“How d’you mean?” I asked.

“Why we three are to try our luck at him, and no underhand games. We’ve agreed to draw lots, and the one that wins gets a try for a month, to see if she can land him, while the others stand aside.”

“Well, I don’t mind,” I answered.

“We’ll put three pieces of paper into a box, one marked with a cross and the others blank, and the one that draws the cross wins first try.”

“It’s all one to me,” I said, “but what are we going to do with the fellow when we’ve got him? Henry Doremus is chiefly stuck on himself. The fellow’s a nut.”

“That doesn’t signify. He’s just a great mooncalf. Besides, his father will be so hopping mad if he doesn’t marry into society he’ll disinherit him.”

“Well, that’s all part of the game,” said Clara. “Are you in on this or not?”

“I suppose so,” I answered.

Clara won first try. Clara is a petite brunette with large, soulful eyes, and the way she made a set at Henry was a caution. She never left his side. She haunted him at church fairs and such entertainments, which Henry attended.

My, the fool that girl made of herself. I’ve seen Henry with a wild look in his eye, glancing about him for some avenue of flight, while Clara was spouting poetry by the yard to him. And when the month came to an end the only effect she had made upon Henry was to inspire him with loathing of everything with a particle of soul in it.

“I’m glad that’s through,” said Clara viciously. “You couldn’t make a dent on him without a chopper. I wouldn’t have taken the fellow for all his money.”

Milly smiled as she drew the next lot. Milly is plump and vivacious and goes in for sports. I wondered how Henry was taking it when he found himself annexed by a new girl. Milly started dragging him off to golf courses and tennis tournaments.

Poor Henry! I met him in the street, covered with perspiration, carrying a tennis racket limply by the end of the handle.

“You certainly are a strenuous lot of girls in this town,” he said to me.

“No,” answered Henry, winking at me.

I might have winked back, I suppose, but that would have been violating the rules of the game as Milly and Clara had made them. So I just laughed and continued on my way. And Henry continued on his dreary round of sports until the sight of a golf club drove him into a frenzy of despair.

But at the end of the month—nothing doing, absolutely nothing!

“You take the fellow!” said Milly angrily, when the time was up. “If you can get him to fall for you, you’re welcome to him, that’s all.”

Two mornings later both the girls were at the house before breakfast.

“Fanny,” gasped Clara, “what’s this story about you and Henry Doremus being ‘engaged?’”

“I guess it’s correct,” I answered, breaking my egg.

“But how—how—?”

“Why, we met in summer camp and were married last summer,” I told the girls. “We’ve only told as far as the engagement yet, but the rest’s nearly ready for publication. I guess Henry won’t feel any temptation to stray from the straight and narrow path after his experiences with you.”

Breaking a Name
“Will you kindly tell us,” a New York reporter asked Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the actress, “why you are so frequently cold and unresponsive to—to our profession, don’t you know? Have you any grudge against newspapers?”

“Not a thing—except one,” she replied. “they will, now and again, call me ‘Mrs. Pat.’ I can’t stand that ‘Pat.’ It’s the last straw that breaks the Campbell’s back.”

Mrs. Mary McClelland Died at Home of Daughter, Mrs. Fox.

Mrs. Mary A. McClelland passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arch Fox, in Perry township, Hocking county, Friday evening, July 11, 1924, after a very severe illness for the past six months of nervous trouble and a diseased foot which finally resulted in gangrene.

In 1860 she was united in marriage to Samuel McClelland, who preceded her many years ago to the great beyond.

Of her immediate family she is survived by two sons, Wallace A. and George H. McClelland and one daughter, Della, wife of Arch Fox, eight grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren, two brothers, William F. and George B. Armstrong, all of near Laurelville and two sisters, Mrs. Susannah Wolfe, of Cridersville and Mrs. Minnie Kearns, of Lancaster.

She was the third daughter of William and Sarah Fetherolf Armstrong and was in her eightieth year.

The funeral services were conducted from the M. E. church at Laurelville by the Rev. J. R. Fields and Rev. C. L. Thomas. Interment was in Green Summit cemetery at Adephi.

FIRE WATER

Chillicothe Boys in Jail and Two Gallons Moonshine Confiscated.

Donald Jones and Ralph Davis, two youths from Chillicothe, drove up to this city with a bunch of Ross county "bug juice" and got lost on the roads of Saltcreek township. The whiskey they imbibed made them see things, but not correctly. Their vision was distorted to such a degree that when the car they were driving went thru a wire fence into a cornfield they just kept going round and round in circles. Sheriff Young was notified and accompanied by Deputy Irwin, he went down to the place designated and brought the boys in, together with two gallons of moonshine. The boys were locked up in jail.

AMUSEMENTS

The dictionary gives the definition of bashfulness as "shrinking modesty." But our definition, after viewing Harold Lloyd's latest Pathe comedy, "Girl Shy," at the Met theater yesterday is that bashfulness is decidedly a subject for expansive laughter. Bashful persons have always inspired us with pity for them, but when Lloyd is seen as a boy scared to death of the female sex, he makes the part one of riotous mirth.

HUNT AMERICAN LORE OF 3,000 YEARS AGO

Morley Expedition to Yucatan Has High Hopes.

New Orleans.—Bent upon solving the mystery which surrounds the history of America during a period dating back 3,000 years, the Morley archeological expedition, sponsored by the Carnegie foundation, has plunged into the primeval country in the vicinity of Yucatan, Mexico. During their stay the party will keep in touch with New Orleans by radio and obtain their supplies from this port.

The party includes Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, one of the leading archeologists of the United States; Earl H. Morris, excavation expert; Mrs. Morris, Monroe Amsden and Mrs. Alma Reed. The latter, who is a newspaper woman, was engaged to marry Felipe Carillo, governor of Yucatan, when he was assassinated. She is making the trip largely because she knew Carillo was interested in the expedition, which was planned long before his death.

Stay Indefinite.

The Morley party will spend an indefinite period in Mexico and will endeavor to probe the secrets of America's earliest civilization. More than 100 Maya Indians, descendants of tribes which once dominated southern Mexico, will remove the soil which has accumulated over ancient palaces and tombs of kings in the last 3,000 years.

Doctor Morley believes that riches far more valuable than those found in the tomb of King Tut, and even more interesting to Americans, will be revealed before the work of the expedition is completed. Although only the surface has been touched, priceless ornaments of jade have already been found. The meager records of the Mayas indicate they were a powerful tribe, with a civilization which, in a measure, challenges the grandeur that was Greece and the glory that was Rome.

To Restore Cities.

"It is of no significance whether we find gold or silver," said Doctor Morley. "Of course there is a romantic appeal in buried treasure, but we are going after something more important—and more valuable, too. Under our feet lie the buried cities of an almost vanished race. The Carnegie foundation will uncover and restore at least one of these cities, and perhaps two. "The scientific value of the work will be equaled only by the wonder of the American people when they realize what has happened on this continent before the white man came to the shores of America."

The Morley expedition is one of the best-equipped ever organized. While those who make up the party will be without some of the comforts of home they have an outfit which will make their life luxurious, as compared with the experiences of archeologists even in the last decade.

Historic Salt Springs Slowly Disappearing

Springfield, Ill.—Gradual disappearance of the Gallatin county salines, believed to have been worked on by the Indians, is removing from Illinois one of its most historic spots. Jacob W. Myers, Harrisburg, who has made a study of the salt springs, states that there are now no memorials to mark the spot.

"Tradition has it that from time immemorial salt has been produced and manufactured at the springs in Gallatin county," Mr. Myers relates. "Around the region of the two principal springs, known as 'Half-Moon Dick,' and 'Nigger Well,' is found a kind of pottery, the existence of which can be explained in no other way than that it may be fragments of large pots and kettles used in evaporating salt water.

"So little remains of the present site that the passerby would never know that he was on historic ground," says Myers. "About all that is left of 'Nigger Well' is a few decayed timbers in the old well, which is now practically filled up.

118,000 British Cattle Slain in Mouth Disease

London.—The recent outbreak of cattle plague in England cost the country $16,000,000 and was responsible for the destruction of 118,000 head of cattle, according to Noel Buxton, labor minister of agriculture. Buxton announces that he is seeking powers to prevent further outbreaks by scientific research as to the root cause of the outbreaks and their origin.

YOUNG MAN KILLS SELF

Accidental Discharge of Gun Caused Death of Cecil Hill.

Was Using Butt of Gun to Drive Sparrows From Bushes When Trigger Caught on Twig—Unfortunate Boy Lived Six Hours After Accident.

Cecil Hill, the nineteen year old son of Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Hill, of Stoutsville, shot and killed himself Tuesday evening while out shooting sparrows with a shot gun on the Charles Steely farm on the county line.

A full charge of shot entered his stomach just above the navel and tore a large jagged hole in the abdominal cavity and also perforated and cut several large arteries. His attending physicians Dr. Kefauver and Dr. Huddle, held out no hopes of his recovery, as the hemorrhage was so great and he survived only six hours, dying at midnight.

The accident occurred while holding the loaded gun in his right hand. He was driving some sparrows out of the bushes and was using the butt end of the gun to scare them from their hiding place and in pulling the weapon from the bushes a twig caught and pushed the trigger and it was discharged.

The young man a graduate of the 1924 Stoutsville high school class, was a good student and had many friends. He was known as "Snap" Hill among his school friends.

His father, Rev. L. E. Hill, was away from home attending an Evangelical convention and conference at Glenwood park near Cleveland, and did not reach home until 4 o'clock the next morning. Besides his parents, he leaves two brothers, Leonard and Russell. The family has lived in Stoutsville about six months.

SHOOT UP TOWN

Automobile and Liquor Confiscated by Sheriff at Duval.

At Duval Tuesday evening a bunch of colored Norfolk & Western railroad employees got illuminated on a bunch of booze brought down in a Pilot car from Columbus. They went wild and began to shoot up the town. The sheriff was notified and with Deputy Sheriff Irwin made a hurried trip to the camp and managed to get hold of the firewater supplies and confiscated the auto. The owner of the car jumped on a passing freight train and skipped out. No one was injured.

FARM RELIEF

Pickaway Bureau and Granges Asked to Help Brothers.

The State Relief commission has asked the Pickaway Farm bureau and granges of Pickaway county to raise $800 for relief of those sections in northern Ohio devastated by the tornado passing over that district on Saturday, June 28. Buildings, woodlands and crops in the paths swept by the storm thru the rural districts are completely destroyed.

In most instances, the buildings are torn apart and scattered for hundreds of feet from their foundations. Farm machinery that was in these buildings cannot be used again. Livestock was either killed or crippled so badly that it is unfit for further use. Where woodlands were visited by these twisting currents, all the trees were blown down or twisted off. In several instances where the path of the storm ran parallel with the road, buildings on both sides were destroyed for miles.

Very few of the farmers in this district carried any tornado insurance. Those who did will not be benefited by these relief funds in any way. Of course, many of the farmers could stand these losses, but those tenant farmers and men on mortgaged farms who had everything they owned taken away in less than four minutes, are very badly crippled financially, because they had neither home nor employment after the storm.

The eight hundred dollars which the relief commission has asked us to raise, when distributed over the entire farming population of Pickaway county, means that it will take very little from each farm home to make up this quota. Any contribution, no matter how small, will be gladly accepted. It is sincerely hoped that the farmers of Pickaway county will respond to this appeal in helping our brother farmers to start over again with their farm work.

Hillsboro Firm Purchased Building, Stock and Good Will.

Business Was Established Many Years Ago and Had Several Changes of Ownership—New Proprietors Are Fairley Brothers of Hillsboro.

The Circleville Hardware company passed into the hands of a new ownership Tuesday, Fairley Brothers, of Hillsboro, taking over the business, good-will, stock and building of the company.

The active members of the firm J. B. Work, Miller Boyd Trout and L. E. Davidson together with the silent member of the firm, L. T. Shaner, retired.

The Circleville Hardware company is the continuation of the firm of Rutter, Wolfley & Rains and was formerly located on West Main street, starting in business back in the fifties. Later the business was purchased by C. Benford & Son and after being in business a number of years was purchased by B. F. Yates. Later it was the Secrest-Yates and then the Secrest-Shaner Hardware company. The stock was moved to its present location March 1, 1919, when the new building was purchased.

R. B. Fairley, the father of Fairley brothers, has been in the hardware business at Hillsboro for the past forty-five years and the resident manager of the firm has been associated with his father for the past thirteen years. Mr. Fairley is married and will move his family to this city to live. The new firm has retained Mr. Davidson as clerk.

Mr. Fairley is the second Hillsboro hardware merchant to locate in this city, the other being Elgar Barrere, of the firm of Barrere & Nickerson.

In Memoriam.

Editor Union-Herald:—Mrs. Mary Hoffman was born in Washington township April 16, 1849, and died Tuesday evening, July 1. She was the daughter of John and Mary Speakman Parks and was married to David Hoffman December 10, 1874. He died April 22, 1915.

Mrs. Hoffman died at her home on the Stoutsville pike following an illness of two years. She was bedfast for four months and her death was due to complications.

One daughter, Miss Bertha Hoffman survives. Of her immediate family there are living three brothers and one sister. They are John Parks, of this city; William Parks of Ashville; George Parks of Marion, and Mrs. J. W. Smith, of Marion.

The funeral services were held at the Trinity Lutheran church Thursday afternoon, July 3, Rev. G. J. Troutman officiating. The pallbearers were C. F. Landenberger, Edward Sensenbrenner, John D. Hummel, John Wardell John Ahn and John C. Goeller. Interment was in Forest cemetery.

Those who attended the funeral from out of the city were Park B. Lamphear, of Ada; Mrs. Effie Parks, of Fostoria; Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson Smith, Mr. George W. Parks and daughter, Anna, of Marion; Mrs. T. H. Park and son, Richard and daughter, Ruth, of Columbus, and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Parks of Ashville.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to extend our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors, who so kindly assisted us, during the illness and after the death of our beloved mother and sister, Mrs. Mary Parks Hoffman, and to thank them for the beautiful floral tributes. We also desire to thank Rev. G. J. Troutman for his words of comfort, the choir for their excellent music and Mader & Ebert for their efficient service.

Miss Bertha Hoffman
And John H. Parks.

Deeds Count, Not Years.

In the olden time people sought the fountain of youth, and they thought that a draught of its water would enable them to live forever. But the best of life is not its length, not the chronological quantity of it. Better fifty years of the moving, pulsating, busy life of the present than all the dull centuries of Methuselah. What did he do with all his weary years? He had the reputation of having been the oldest man, and nothing to show for it.—Exchange.

Unlike Mayflower Pilgrims.

In 1731, on the 27th of September, a gang of 130 felons were taken from Newgate prison and put aboard ship to be transported to America to colonize the country. Later in the century England changed the destination of her transported criminals to Botany bay and favored America with shiploads of destitute people just discharged from the poorhouses.

Life Insurance in the Wild West.

Agent—"What did that new arrival say?" Assistant—"He wouldn't talk to me at all—said he was too busy to talk about life insurance." Agent—"Well, I'll hang around his house tonight and shoot holes through his windows, and when he comes downtown in the morning you be behind a fence in some vacant lot and put a few balls through the top of his hat. Then when he reaches his office I'll drop in and talk life insurance to him again."

The sweeping success of the good Maxwell is squarely due to the fact that it affords the most advanced engineering, at a price within reach of every one who can afford a car at all.

As in the Chrysler Six, scientific engineering has now produced such revolutionary results that unless a man at least tests them himself, he cannot be sure of securing the highest motoring satisfaction.

Maxwell's most recent development has to do with notable improvement in every phase of riding, driving and performance, economy and long life, and the reduction of vibration to a degree never before thought possible in a four.

ROUND WORLD IN AN AUTOMOBILE
The American Captain Wandervell, his secretary and two chauffeurs, are making a trip around the world in two autos. The trip began on Sept. 22, 1919, from Atlanta, Ga. Captain Wandervell, who has been through 23 lands, is now in Berlin. He is said to have made a huge bet in America that he would go all round the world without taking a penny of money with him or having any sent from home. He also does not accept any money from any auto manufacturers. He, with his companions, is to work his way round the globe.

SOME CAUSES FOR STARTER TROUBLE
In Case of Failure Battery Is First Thing to Suspect—Test Acid Solution.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)
To every motorist sooner or later there comes the unpleasant experience of stepping on the starter button and instead of the merry whirr of turning gears, being greeted by stony silence. It is scarcely remarkable that this occurs, indeed the wonder is that the starter holds up as well as it does under the abuse that it receives at the hands of the average car owner.
The starter system embodies the following units: A storage battery, the cables that connect the battery with the rest of the system, a switch for bringing the starter into action and, as a general thing, the frame of the car, which is used to return the current to the battery after it has turned over the engine.

Suspect Battery First.
In cases of starter failure the first thing to suspect is the battery, which supplies the current that operates the starter. Once a week during the active running season the battery must be filled to level with distilled water. The acid solution should be tested at these times with a hydrometer, showing the specific gravity of the solution. If this has fallen below 1.200 the battery is away below charge and must be recharged without delay. If the battery is permitted to become dry or to fall so low in charge that it cannot turn over the starter the cause of the failure is at once revealed.
The next things to suspect are the cables that connect the battery with the starter by way of the switch. While the trouble here is not so frequent, nevertheless insulation may wear through, setting up shorts that drain the battery and prevent the starter from doing its work. Occasionally, also, the switch goes out of business, but if the battery is proved to have adequate current and the cables are all right, examine the switch.

Lack of Lubrication.
Sometimes the starter motor itself goes out of business through mechanical failure or lack of lubrication. The starting motor is generally lubricated from the engine on one end and by a small oil hole in the other. The engine lubrication is automatic, but the oil hole requires a drop of oil every 500 miles of running.

The brushes and commutator of the starting motor do not need oil; in fact, if oil gets on these parts it is likely to stop the motor from operating. In this case the oil may be cleaned off by holding a small piece of fine sandpaper against the commutator while the motor is running.

From all this the car owner will get the obvious lesson that troubles in the starting system are best cured by reasonable care beforehand. Keep the battery up to its work, watch the cables for broken insulation. Give the starting motor the drop of oil it needs, and the starter will continue to whirr obediently to your foot pressure while the crank rests in idleness under the back seat.

STEERING ARMS CAUSE WEAR
One Reason Is That Wheels Are Not True, Especially When the Car Is Turned.

One reason for unusual wear on front tires, due to the wheels not being true, especially when the car is turned, is because the steering arms, extending from knuckle to tie rod, have been bent from a hard strain exerted on them by the wheels hitting a rut, bump or flaw in the road diagonally, or by some object striking the arms themselves. Naturally, the wheels will not both head in the same direction when one or both of these arms are sprung.

SOME KNOW DETAILS OF CARING FOR CAR
"Do It Yourself" Knowledge Lags Because of Stations.

How about tracing out trouble in the electrical circuits in your car, or correcting the timing of the motor, or grinding the valves? Could you do these things if either were necessary in an emergency?

Most garage men, and they are in position to know, believe that you are to be congratulated on your knowledge if you are one of the old-fashioned few who can do any of these things.

The long and short of it seems to be that the substantial construction of the car and its parts and the frequency of service stations makes all this "do it yourself" knowledge superfluous. The up-to-date driver, instead of loading up his memory with a mass of details, remembers only a few items of routine care—things that he must do to keep the car running smoothly and continuously. It is this sort of information that the industry has made popular.

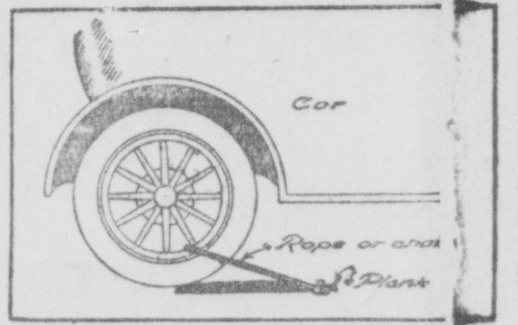

Hardly a day goes by in any garage or service station without their noting the effect of the educational work that has been done by the accessory manufacturers and car builders during the past few years. The storage battery in particular has received an unusual amount of attention.

There can be little doubt that the car owner owes a good deal of his satisfaction to the efforts of the manufacturer and his representatives who have taught him what to do to keep each part of his car in prime condition.

GETTING AUTO OUT OF MUD
Device Made of Plank Four Feet Long and One Foot Wide Is Useful in Emergency.

The Farm Journal in illustrating and describing a device to get a car out of mud hole, the inventor of Robert H. Neill of Ohio, says:

"A device for getting the car out of the mud under its own power can be made from a plank about four feet long, one foot wide and two inches thick. A chain is fastened at two corners of plank, and when laid in front of the sunken wheel the chain is passed around one of the spokes as shown in diagram. By this means the car will climb up onto the plank and out of the mud hole.

"This device is not bulky and could be carried along as one of the most useful tools."

TROUBLE LAMP OF ODD TYPE
So Constructed That It Can Be Made to Adhere to Any Iron Part of Automobile.

No automobilist likes to be without a trouble lamp, and often when he has one he finds it difficult to place it where it will afford illumination at the seat of the trouble while his hands are occupied with tools. The newest type of trouble lamp has an electro-magnet in the base, which is energized when the lamp is lighted, making it possible to stick it to any of the iron parts of the car.

Starting Made Easier.
Throw out the clutch when starting Motor has to turn over the clutch countershaft gears, besides the engine itself. It is a heavy strain on battery.

Primitive Spoons
The origin of the spoon was very likely a shell fitted to a wooden or bone handle. Caddy spoons, which were only used after the custom of tea-drinking was well established, were nearly all with shell-shaped bowls, and were very small at first, to fit into the small caddy boxes and the small china cups, for tea was scarce and used in small quantities. Tea-drinking was not done on a large scale in England until the days of George II.

Woman
If a man is in grief, who cheers him? In trouble, who consoles him? In wrath, who soothes him? In joy, who makes him doubly happy? In prosperity, who rejoices? In disgrace, who backs him against the world, and dresses with gentle arguments and warm poultices the rankling wounds made by the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune? Who, but woman. If you please.—William Makepeace Thackeray.

Jealousy Proved Fatal to English Musician

Certainly the most destructive of human emotions is that of jealousy. With the exception of love and war nothing seems to be so provocative to the green-eyed monster, who seems to have the faculty of consuming all those who admit him to their souls, as music. A list of the famous musical jealousies would be interesting. It would run into the hundreds. Opera companies are usually nests of jealousy.

Possibly one of the most famous cases of musical jealousy is that of Henry Cooke, deceased (1872). Cooke was a fighter who gloried in the term of captain. He joined the king's army and fought bravely. It is said, but when the commonwealth came into existence he was obliged to make his living teaching music. Eventually he became gentleman and master of the children when the chapel royal was established again in 1890. There he had as his pupils no less than Purcell, John Blow and Pelham Humphrey. Humphrey so closely imitated the work of his master that after some time he was able to supplant him in his state position. Captain Cooke flew into a rage of jealousy, and this continued until in his death notice there appeared the significant line, "died of jealousy."

An Egyptian Orchestra.
A full Egyptian orchestra was composed of twenty harps, eight lutes, five or six lyres, six or seven double pipes, five or six flutes, one or two pipes (rarely used), two or three tambourines (seldom used). If vocalists were added, which was not necessarily the rule, they would number about three-fourths as many as the harpers.

Great Statesman Had Genius of Invention

Thomas Jefferson, signer of the Declaration of Independence and third President of the United States, was of an inventive turn of mind as well as being a fairly good violinist and something of a scientist, remarks the Detroit News. On one of his tours of Europe he was struck by the bad construction of the plows in use by the peasants of France.

The moldboard, a device above the share to turn over the earth, he decided, required redesigning. He spent the greater part of his leisure time for two years evolving a moldboard that would be most effective.

Satisfied, at length, that he had succeeded, Jefferson sent a plow equipped with his new device to the Royal Agriculture Society of the Seine. A medal which the society awarded him—for the plow proved to be all he had hoped for—followed him to New York, and 18 years later, the society sent him a specially made plow containing his improvement as a token of appreciation for what he had done for agriculture in France.

"Cates" Word Little Used

The word "cates," meaning dainty foods, is probably never used except in poetry, and seldom there, yet we call the person who caters for our food a caterer, and in that form the word is of everyday occurrence.

It has come into some prominence lately in connection with the fifth centenary celebrations of the famous Dick Whittington, whose fame rests more solidly on his possession of a cat than upon any municipal honors which came to him, observes London Tit-Bits.

There have been all manner of learned discussions as to Whittington's cat, one of which pointed to the probability that this city merchant had a ship called the Cat. But the late Professor Rowley of Bristol was perfectly sure that "cat" was an abbreviation of this old English word "cate," meaning provisions, which survives, even in our geography, in the Cate river at Plymouth.

Seems So

On the very day that a man has set to inaugurate his plan of personal improvement something happens to prevent it. He has to begin some other day.

Simply Couldn't

Dorothy, aged five, had been given a pretty blue-silk sash and the first day she wore it she was constantly running to her mother to have it tied.

"Why, Dorothy," said her mother, "This makes the fifth time I've tied your sash this morning. You must learn to tie it yourself."

"But how can I, mamma," replied the little miss, "when I'm standing around in the front all the time?"

Clock Made of Glass

A Bohemian glass polisher at Prague has constructed a clock which, with the exception of the springs, is made entirely of glass. The glass plates and pillars are bolted together with glass screws. Many of the parts had to be made over and over before a clock that would keep time was produced.

The shooting started when Frank Longard, a cottager, reported to the police that he discovered the men and women making off with a camper's outfit.

Defense Test Attacked.

Columbus, July 16.—Protest against the defense test, scheduled by the war department for Sept. 12, was made by the Ohio council of churches in a letter sent by Executive Secretary B. F. Lamb to Secretary of War Weeks. The letter expressed "deep concern" over this test, intended as a demonstration of the country's facilities for mobilization in time of war, and suggested that our need was a mobilization for peace rather than a mobilization for war.

Civilization in Korea.

History for many years B. C. tells us that the people of Korea were among the highest in genuine civilization. About the year 1597 a general by the name of Li built the first iron fleet, composed of wooden circular vessels with iron plates on top, studded with iron teeth. Because of the prosperity of the Korean nation, Japan was extremely jealous, and had therefore-brought 700 boats in battle array. However, Li, with his 50 boats, succeeded in inflicting a disastrous defeat upon the Japanese.

Tree Trunks Made Cisterns.

The gigantic baobab tree of central Africa, the trunk of which sometimes attains a diameter of forty feet, often serves as a natural cistern, retaining rain-water in large quantities in a cavity formed at the top of the broad trunk. Taking the hint thus afforded by nature, the Arabs artificially hollow out the huge baobabs and fill them with water during the prevalence of rains, as a provision against the dry season. These cisterns are in many cases twenty feet in height and eight or ten feet in diameter.

"When You Are in Rome," Etc.

The saying is taken from St. Ambrose's advice to St. Austin in regard to Sabbath keeping. He says to St. Austin: "When I am in Rome I fast as the Romans do; when I am in Milan I do not fast. So likewise you; whatever church you come to, observe the custom of the place, if you would neither give offense to others, nor take offense from them."

WOMAN FACES MURDER CHARGE

Held in Connection With Death of Sixth Husband.

ALLEGED TO HAVE CONFESSED

Arrest Made After Husband's Body Had Been Exhumed and Traces of Poison Reported Found in Vital Organs—No Motive or Mention of Accomplice Made in Alleged Confession, Prosecutor Says.

Mt. Gilead, O., July 16.—County Prosecutor T. B. Mateer indicated that a charge of first degree murder would be filed against Mrs. Elvora Yeomans, 39, of Cardington, O., who is being held in jail here pending investigation of the death of her late husband, Lewis Yeomans, 43.

Mrs. Yeomans is said to have been married seven times. Yeoman died June 28, last. He had been in such good health up until the time of his death that the attending physician refused to sign a certificate stating a cause of death until an investigation was conducted.

County officials started an investigation and ordered the dead man's body exhumed. This was done last Friday at Glendale cemetery in Cardington and the vital organs were sent to Columbus for analysis. A preliminary report of the examination made by Dr. C. F. Smith of the state department of health showed traces of poison in the man's body, according to Prosecutor Mateer.

The Yeomans were married last February and made their home in Cardington. Yeoman was her sixth husband, she having married one of her earlier husbands twice, according to county officials.

Prosecutor Mateer announced later that Mrs. Yeoman confessed that she administered poison to her husband. In the alleged confession Mrs. Yeoman admitted killing her husband, but failed to state a motive or mention an accomplice.

Cardington officials told of mysterious letters received by the woman and other letters mailed by her. Just a few days after her marriage to Yeoman, Prosecutor Mateer said, the woman went to the Cardington post-office and rented a box under the name of "N. B. Snyder." Once while the woman's husband was at work, a stranger appeared in the village and excited curiosity by standing in front of the postoffice until, witnesses told the prosecutor, Mrs. Yeoman met the stranger and they walked away together, talking earnestly. All letters sent by the woman, postoffice officials at Cardington told the prosecutor, were addressed to Harry McMonigal, at Detroit. McMonigal was a former husband of the woman, the prosecutor said. A few days after Yeoman's death, the prosecutor related, McMonigal came to Cardington and remained for three or four days.

FUNDS SOUGHT

Labor Asked to Finance the LaFollette Campaign.

Washington, July 16.—Officials of the conference for progressive political action, which endorsed Senator LaFollette's independent candidacy for the presidency at its Cleveland convention, sent out an appeal to national labor organizations for financial aid. Each group was urged to make an immediate contribution, to be used in defraying preliminary campaign expenses and to aid in the solicitation of funds from individuals in their organizations.

Plans for raising an adequate campaign fund, chiefly by small contributions from those in the working class, will be laid before the conference's national committee when it meets here Friday to select a vice presidential candidate and perfect campaign plans. The committee probably will call upon LaFollette in a body to exchange greetings.

Debs For LaFollette.

Chicago, July 16.—Eugene V. Debs formally declared himself for Robert M. LaFollette for the presidency and urged all members of the Socialist party to support the Wisconsin senator's candidacy. It is the first formal statement to be made by the veteran leader of the Socialist party since the organization decided, at its Cleveland convention, to put no national party ticket in the field this fall.

President Coolidge appointed Fred T. Dubois, former senator from Idaho, to be a member of the international boundary commission between the United States and Canada.

Gas Companies at Columbus Are Refused Rate Increase.

Columbus, July 16.—City council unanimously rejected the application of the Columbus Gas and Fuel company for a 10-cent increase per 1,000 cubic feet in the price of gas distributed in Columbus by the two companies. The rejection came after a conference between council sitting as a committee of the whole on the gas rate question, and L. B. Denning, president of the Columbus Gas and Fuel company and spokesman for the two companies. The matter came to a vote after Denning, invited to prove to council why the increase should be granted, offered nothing to support the request of the companies. The gas companies will not negotiate with council on any other basis, according to Denning, who, when the unanimous action of council was taken, folded his brief case and left the meeting.

DAVIS CONFERS WITH LEADERS

Collecting Ideas for His Speech of Acceptance.

PLAN STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN

Democrats to Open Headquarters at New York, Chicago and San Francisco—Davis to Deliver His Broadside at Clarksburg, His Old Home. National Committee Chairmanship Not Selected.

New York, July 16.—Democratic campaign headquarters are to be opened at New York, Chicago and San Francisco, it was announced here.

John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee for president, has been in conference with party leaders from all sections of the country since his selection, at which campaign plans have been discussed. Davis is now busy collecting ideas for the first political broadside to be delivered when he receives notification of the nomination at his old home in Clarksburg, W. Va. The Democrats plan to gain the jump on the Republicans as the present program calls for the acceptance speech to be made a week prior to the Coolidge speech of acceptance. The president will be notified at Washington Aug. 14.

The task of selecting a chairman of the Democratic national committee is still holding up the movements of the Democratic machine. In an interview Davis said he had made no personal selection for the post. He showed his readiness to accept Frank L. Polk by saying, "Frank's a good man." Polk has repeatedly said he did not care to head the Democratic campaign, although willing to be one of the active workers.

Davis will spend the week in New York maintaining his conferences with party leaders at the home of Frank L. Polk. Friday he will gather up the ideas he has gained from these conferences and retire to the home of Charles Dana Gibson at Dark Harbor, Me., where he will draft his speech of acceptance.

AMERICANS WIN

Girl Swimmers Finish One, Two and Three in Finals.

Paris, July 16.—American girl swimming stars finished one, two, three in the finals of the 400-meter free style event in the Olympic championships. Martha Norelius won the event, with Helen Wainwright second and Gertrude Ederle third.

The United States 8-oared crew, which is the Yale eight that beat Harvard last month on the Thames, won its heat in the rowing at Argenteuil, with Canada second and Holland third.

In the 1,500-meter swim for men, in which no Americans qualified for the finals, Charleston of Australia set a new world's record when he won the event from Arneborg of Sweden. The new record time was 20 minutes and 6 3-5 seconds.

In the double sculls at Argenteuil, the United States won the first heat from France. The American's time was 6 minutes and 30 seconds; the French 6 minutes and 52 seconds.

Would Conscript Fire Fighters. San Francisco, July 16.—The Klammath and Sierra national forests were added to the zones of the California forest fire menace. Minor fires in those two forests have spread to serious proportions. In the meantime, the fire in the Santa Barbara forest of southern California continued to defy efforts of fire fighting crews, numbering now 1,500 men. In the Tapo forest a little progress was being made against flames on the forest divide. Forestry officials met at New Haven, Cal., proposed a scale conscription of campers to fight the flames and suggested closing of all national forests within the state. Already 250 men have been "conscripted" in Los Angeles.

Slain With Ax.

Dallas, Tex., July 16.—The body of Alexander A. Bevacqua, 45, head of the Dallas Sand and Gravel company, was found under a bridge near here. Police say he had been killed by a blow from an ax, and his body transported for some distance. Bevacqua recently assisted Canadian officers in locating an Italian, who was later deported to Italy to face trial.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Third of Relief Fund Raised.

Columbus, July 16.—It was announced by Chairman Miller of the storm relief commission that more than one-third of the $600,000 asked for the rehabilitation of Lorain and the storm-swept area of northern Ohio has been raised. Compilation by the commission of gifts thus far made showed $201,937 subscribed. Engineers of the national guard now working in Lorain may be assigned to assist farmers in cleaning up wreckage in farm sections. Forty prisoners from the penitentiary also will be sent to Lorain county to assist farmers in cleaning up.

Young Pheasants Killed.

Columbus, July 16.—Hundreds of young pheasants were killed at the state game farm at Wellington during the month of June because of the excessive rainfall, according to a statement from D. O. Thompson, head of the state fish and game department. However, despite the loss 7,000 birds have been distributed and that more will be sent to every county in the state during the summer.

No Special Session.

Toledo, July 16.—No special session of the legislature will be called to appropriate funds for Lorain and other storm stricken sections. The legislature has no fund to expend as it desires, declared Robert Dunn, speaker of the general assembly, in response to a letter to Paul M. Herbert of Columbus, suggesting the special session.

Woman Teller Held.

Cleveland, July 16.—According to the police, Miss Marie Perrin, 42, bank teller, admitted embezzling $10,000 from the bank in which she was employed. Miss Perrin, police say, told them that she had been using money for four years in keeping up an account in the stock market.

Ford's Contribution.

Lorain, O., July 16.—Donation of $10,000 to the Lorain relief fund by Henry Ford, Detroit auto manufacturer, was announced in a telegram from his secretary, E. G. Liebold, to the Lorain Red Cross. He is donating in the name of his company.

Drop in Car Fare Likely.

Cincinnati, July 16.—Cincinnati's streetcar fare may drop from 10 to 7 1/2 cents. The cut will come if council and the traction company are able to draft the new franchise and have it passed without further disagreement.

Indorse LaFollette.

Youngstown, O., July 16.—Members of the United Labor congress here pledged themselves as individuals to indorse and support the candidacy of Senator Robert M. LaFollette for president.

Killed by Fumes.

Canton, O., July 16.—Michael Fuller, 53, employee of the ice company at Minerva, is dead after inhaling ammonia fumes while he was filling an ammonia tank in a confectionery here.

Woman Hangs Herself.

Warren, O., July 16.—The body of Mrs. Sarah P. C. Walker, 66, was found hanging from the stairway of her home. She had fastened a rope about her neck, tied it on the banister and jumped over. She lived alone.

Fall Waives Hearing.

El Paso, Tex., July 16.—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, waived preliminary hearing when arraigned in federal court here on indictments growing out of the naval reserve oil leases.

FOUR PROVINCES UNDER WATER

RESULT OF INCESSANT RAINS

Thousands of Lives Reported Lost and Property Damage Runs Into the Millions—Cities of Peking and Tientsin Threatened by Breaking Dykes Along the River—Railroads Destroyed by Landslides.

Pekin, July 16.—Prolonged rains have created havoc in several Chinese provinces, where floods and landslides have occurred.

Hundreds of villages have been destroyed in the Honan, Hunan, Anhui and Kiangsi provinces, and thousands of lives are reported lost. Heavy financial losses have been incurred throughout the western part of the country. Peking itself is practically isolated, except for the Tien Tsin railway line, which is threatened with inundation.

The entire business district of Kalgan, the westernmost rail head of China, was destroyed, and the railroad at this point buried under landslides and debris. Some lives have been lost there, and the property loss runs into millions of dollars. All foreigners are reported safe.

The city of Peking is threatened by breaking dykes along the mountain river to the eastward, where soldiers are toiling day and night at constant repairs. Tientsin is at present not flooded, but this is only being prevented by the efforts of an army of coolies working at the dykes. Engineers propose drastic measures to save the city, suggesting cutting some of the dykes and permitting the water to overflow into the low rice lands between Tientsin and Peking.

The railroad lines running between Peking and Hankow and between Peking and Sui Yan are both without traffic. The floods were worst in the four provinces, Honan, Hunan, Anhui and Kiangsi, each of which reported the wiping out of hundreds of villages and terrible loss of life.

GRAIN CONCERNS TO BE TAKEN OVER

Merger to Be Farmer Owned and Operated.

Chicago, July 16.—Farmers of the country, through their co-operative selling agencies, have purchased five leading grain concerns. The five firms are: Armour Grain corporation, Rosenbaum Grain corporation, J. C. Shaffer & Company, Rosenbaum Brothers, all of Chicago, and the Davis, Noland, Merrill company of Kansas City.

The new company has been capitalized at $20,000,000 and will start functioning immediately, handling the grain crops now coming to market. The purchase of the five companies gives the new organization control of 50,000,000 bushels of elevator space at strategic points. Farmers are now enabled to market as well as to produce grain, sponsors of the purchase plan stated.

The executive officials of the big grain companies included in the merger have offered to run the merged company for five years and instruct the growers in the handling of grain. The executives, according to their plan, will work on a salary basis, the new company being run by a board of directors with the farmers in control of two-thirds of the directorate. On the board it is planned to have men representing the elevator companies, grain dealers, bankers and railroads.

Carried Eight Passengers.

Chicago, July 16.—An all-metal airplane, carrying eight passengers, made a test trip between Detroit and Chicago. The 225 miles were covered in 3 hours. William B. Stout, pilot, gave some demonstrations here and later took off for Detroit.

Urbaytis Recovering.

Columbus, July 16.—Joseph Urbaytis, Toledo postoffice bandit, who was shot by local detectives May 6 while effecting his capture, was reported by hospital officials as almost recovered. Urbaytis probably will be taken to Toledo next week.

BUTLER AN AIDE

Coolidge to Be the Real Manager of His Campaign.

Washington, July 16.—President Coolidge will be the real manager of his campaign for re-election and William M. Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee, personal and political mentor of the president, will be his chief assistant. The "advisory board," which C. Bascom Slemple, secretary to the president, said would have the "real management" of the campaign, is to be a "shifting body," with no set personnel. These facts were brought out by an official white house spokesman in outlining plans for the Republican campaign.

Tentative arrangements for the campaign call for a few speeches in person by the president and a somewhat greater number over the radio. The east will be Mr. Coolidge's principal "stamping grounds," and he is not expected at any time to get further west than the Mississippi river. For the most part, however, a white house back porch campaign will be conducted.

Says Piracy Exists.

New York, July 16.—The existence of an organized system of piracy on rum row, off the coasts of Long Island and New Jersey was revealed by a United States government agent, who confirmed the report made at an inquiry in Halifax, N. S., by the captain of the French steamer Mulhouse. He substantiated the captain's story of a raid on his ship off the New Jersey shore by a band of 40 heavily armed men. The government agent has gathered his data in anticipation of a demand for information by the state department to satisfy possible French demands.

FARMERS WILL BENEFIT

Present Grain Rates May Reach Higher Levels.

Chicago, July 16.—B. W. Snow, crop expert, says prosperity is dawning for American farmers, especially in the wheat and corn growing states. Present high grain prices are based on sound economic conditions and will continue to even higher levels, Snow declared. They are not caused by government or political manipulation, he said. The American wheat crop this year is only three-fourths the size of the 1923 crop, Snow estimated, and with small surplus stocks on hand, the law of supply and demand is certain to bring higher prices. While Snow refused to estimate the increased value of this year's major crops, the financial district believes farmers will benefit to the extent of between $750,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 more than last year.

Actress Fined.

Chicago, July 16.—Rosetta Duncan, musical comedy star, who alleges that a policeman of Cicero, a suburb, broke her nose in trying to arrest her July Fourth, was fined $1 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct. Her brother, Harold, whose arrest for a violation of an automobile ordinance led to the altercation, was fined $2 and costs when he pleaded guilty to that charge and $1 and costs for disorderly conduct.

AN ENGAGEMENT WELL RECEIVED

By MYRTA DAVIES

(©, 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

PAULINE had been engaged more times than all the rest of the girls in town put together.

Then along came Ez Dustin—dark, big, quiet (apparently)—a new local manager of the telegraph and telephone company.

For the first time in Pauline's engaging young life, it looked as if she was stage struck, spellbound, call it what you will.

"Clever miss!" sighed the young married women who saw Pauline's faults as well as her virtues. "Contrast with the other girls is what she's working for. Can you beat it? But you don't see Ez Dustin falling for her, do you?"

It was true. It looked as if either the fame of the little philanthropist's doings had reached young Dustin's canny ears and made him wary.

One day it would be Ruth Larkin, escorted to the theater in the Dustin runabout, another day it would be Molly Roads who hiked over the hills with him, and so on, until, to be frank, the whole town had to confess that there wasn't a girl in the place except Pauline Phelps to whom Ezra Dustin had not shown some delightful attention.

Even little pink-haired Mary Saunders had twice been taken to dances by Ezra—Mary who had never been anywhere much. But Pauline sat on the sidelines, or trotted about, very seldom, though—and primly, with the nice boys she had been engaged to, and somehow it seemed she had lost all the zest of the great game she knew so amazingly well.

Then with the speed of a prairie express, the news spread through the town that Ezra was engaged to marry Ruth. Ruth herself did not deny the report, and certain it was that on the Saturday night dance program she let the handsome stranger have fully three-fourths of the dances. The town was thrilled. This particular thrill lasted till the Centre lawn party, when Ezra danced attention to Molly like a medieval gallant, and the next day Molly appeared with a blazing stone, presumably a diamond, set in silvery stuff, presumably platinum. This thrill lasted until Molly stopped wearing the ring, and little Mary began to go driving with Ezra every evening and to get pinker and prettier.

Meantime, Ezra succeeded in doing good work for the Tel. & Tel. offices, and six months after the beginning of his campaign as company manager and knight of the town, he was promoted to the position of company manager in the next city. The question was, would he accept and, if he did, whom would he take with him?

Ezra accepted, and for several weeks before leaving town, as far as onlookers could discern, attended strictly to telegraph and telephone business. During those weeks Ruth announced her engagement to the local dentist. Molly told quite frankly that the ring had been a joke, and had cost exactly ten cents, and little Mary and Pauline held their peace. Moreover, they held it together. They got more and more intimate, walked together, drove together, shopped and embroidered together, and what they talked together for some time goodness only knew.

When it all did come out, talk about thrills! It was one of the most thrilling thrills that had ever struck the place, because nobody had suspected it. The whole story was revealed at the farewell party the Tel. & Tel. folks gave in honor of their enterprising young manager.

During the evening Ezra punctiliously danced with every girl in the hall, cutting in gallantly, and including even Pauline and Mary in his attentions. At the close of the evening the Tel. & Tel. company presented Ezra with a monogrammed gold pencil, and Ezra, after expressing his thanks, spoke a few words in addition.

"Friends!" he said, laughing frankly, "you all know I've been acting the flirt since I've been here among you. It's natural as breathing. Always has been."

"Just like Pauline!" The townfolks nudged one another. Dustin caught the whisper.

"Exactly," he smiled. "Just like Miss Pauline Phelps, and neither of us has ever meant any harm, but from the time I met Pauline two years ago (eyes got bigger) at the shore, all during our most interesting correspondence (eyes popping wide) up to the present moment, we have both been sure that when the time came for us to go on our honeymoon together we'd be through with flirtation and ready to settle down in something pretty close to bliss with each other."

The town gasped. "Pauline stopped flirting before I did," grinned Ezra. "She played the demure game and got away with it, I think. We thought it would be fun to keep you all guessing. Oh, by the way, Mary Saunders is my cousin. Come here, Mary, and make your bow. Come, Pauline, don't let the man do all the talking. Come to see us, everybody. We'll try to give you a good time."

Pauline smiled demurely. She felt demure, confiding, adoring.

"I hate to leave you all," she said. "I love you so."

And at that instant all the town's king for the pretty little flirt added to itself a whole-hearted love that for every former engagement, and "Glory be!" to the last one.

The Century Plant

The belief that the century plant blooms every 100 years is a myth, according to Pathfinder Magazine. The flowering of this interesting plant depends upon the climate and rapidity of growth. In warm climates such as Mexico and Central America, the original home of the century plants, they grow rapidly and usually bloom about the seventh of eighth year, seldom later than the twelfth. In colder climates the period before bloom is much longer. Some authorities say that in hot houses 80 to 100 years may elapse before the plant flowers, a fact which probably gave rise to the century myth from which the plant gets its popular name. After flowering the century plant dies down to the ground. However, new plants arise from lateral buds.

Flowers of the Desert

Arizona deserts have their own flowers. In places the supply is abundant, the growth large, the flowers when in bloom of marked beauty, the big yucca and the sotol, both members of the lily family, showing beautiful bloom on tall and stately stalks.

One of the interesting desert growths is the water cactus, so named because its great stalk, from five to ten feet high and as large in circumference as a barrel. It has a heavy pulpy covering from which it is possible to squeeze goodly amounts of water, and Indians and travelers are quick to turn to the cactus when water supplies are short, says the Detroit News.

A Keats Phrase

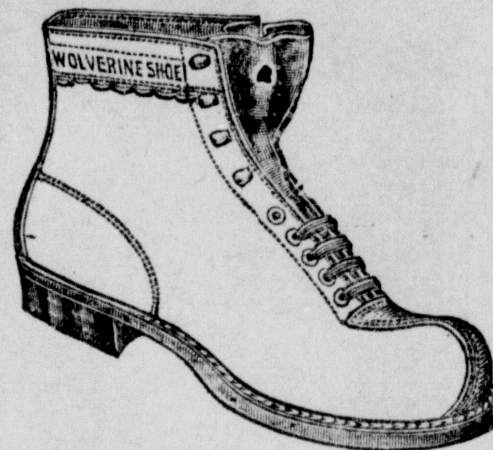

"Here are sweet peas," he said, "on tip-toe for a flight"—a phrase which will give grace, better than water, to your garden. For words make the world grow—not, I think, because they express a feeling, for that means that they relieve you of it, but because they give to the feeling a locality and distinct body. It comes down like dew out of the general air and alights here in a bright drop.—Max Eastman.

Cold Water Purifier

DRY AIR SYSTEM
REFRIGERATOR

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

Aimed for Fair Play and No Favors

By CLARA DELAFIELD
(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"FANNY, listen," said Clara to me in a high state of excitement. "Do you know what's happened since you came back from summer camp? Why, Henry Doremus is back from Harvard, and gone into his father's law business!"

"Interesting, but not thrilling," I replied.

"Not, isn't it? Do you realize that that young man's going to inherit a cool million dollars some day, and that we three are practically the only eligible girls in town? Well, Milly and I are going to have a shot at him."

"Wishing you luck," I said.

"Ah, come off, Fanny! You know you'd die of joy if you thought you had a chance at him. Now listen. We want to go in for him, fair play and no favors."

"How do you mean?" I asked.

"Why we three are to try our luck at him, and no underhand games. We've agreed to draw lots, and the one that wins gets a try for a month, to see if she can land him, while the others stand aside."

"Well, I don't mind," I answered.

"We'll put three pieces of paper into a box, one marked with a cross and the others blank, and the one that draws the cross wins first try."

"It's all one to me," I said, "but what are we going to do with the fellow when we've got him? Henry Doremus is chiefly stuck on himself. The fellow's a nut."

"Nut, is he?" snorted Clara. "He took honors at Harvard."

"That doesn't signify. He's just a great mooncalf. Besides, his father will be so hopping mad if he doesn't marry into society he'll disinherit him."

"Well, that's all part of the game," said Clara. "Are you in on this or not?"

"I suppose so," I answered.

Clara won first try. Clara is a petite brunette with large, soulful eyes, and the way she made a set at Henry was a caution. She never left his side. She haunted him at church fairs and such entertainments, which Henry attended.

My, the fool that girl made of herself. I've seen Henry with a wild look in his eye, glancing about him for some avenue of flight, while Clara was spouting poetry by the yard to him. And when the month came to an end the only effect she had made upon Henry was to inspire him with loathing of everything with a particle of soul in it.

"I'm glad that's through," said Clara viciously. "You couldn't make a dent on him without a chopper. I wouldn't have taken the fellow for all his money."

Milly smiled as she drew the next lot. Milly is plump and vivacious and goes in for sports. I wondered how Henry was taking it when he found himself annexed by a new girl. Milly started dragging him off to golf courses and tennis tournaments.

Poor Henry! I met him in the street, covered with perspiration, carrying a tennis racket limply by the end of the handle.

"You certainly are a strenuous lot of girls in this town," he said to me.

"Poor Mr. Doremus!" I rejoined. "Small town life isn't what it used to be."

"No," answered Henry, winking at me.

I might have winked back, I suppose, but that would have been violating the rules of the game as Milly and Clara had made them. So I just laughed and continued on my way. And Henry continued on his dreary round of sports until the sight of a golf club drove him into a frenzy of despair.

But at the end of the month—nothing doing, absolutely nothing!

"You take the fellow!" said Milly angrily, when the time was up. "If you can get him to fall for you, you're welcome to him, that's all."

Two mornings later both the girls were at the house before breakfast.

"Fanny," gasped Clara, "what's this story about you and Henry Doremus being engaged?"

"I guess it's correct," I answered, breaking my egg.

"But how—how—?"

"Why, we met in summer camp and were married last summer," I told the girls. "We've only told as far as the engagement yet, but the rest's nearly ready for publication. I guess Henry won't feel any temptation to stray from the straight and narrow path after his experiences with you."

Breaking a Name

"Will you kindly tell us," a New York reporter asked Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the actress, "why you are so frequently cold and unresponsive to—to our profession, don't you know? Have you any grudge against newspapers?"

"Not a thing—except one," she replied. "they will, now and again, call me 'Mrs. Pat.' I can't stand that 'Pat.' It is the last straw that breaks the Campbell's back."

CLINTON NOGGLE

Unable to Perform Ordinary Activities as Result of Injury.

Subnormal and defective mentality by reason of a blow on the head, causing him physical impairment and inability to perform ordinary duties and activities of a normal person, Clinton Noggle, 346 Walnut street, Circleville, will receive a weekly allowance from the state insurance fund until he is able to find light work and a wage equal to or greater than that which he earned April 18, 1923, when hurt.

Noggle was working on a construction job at 946 East Main street Circleville, and was stooping over to pick up a board when William Myers, another workman, passed with a plank on his shoulder. Noggle raised up in time to receive a blow from the end of the plank on the head and as a result his nervous system was damaged badly, reported physicians holding a neurological examination.

Since the time of the accident, Noggle has been receiving compensation from the workmen's compensation fund and will continue to get $8.02 weekly until his earnings reach a normal rate again. He will be able to perform light work, physicians reported.

Mrs. Mary McClelland Died at Home of Daughter, Mrs. Fox.

Mrs. Mary A. McClelland passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arch Fox, in Perry township, Hocking county, Friday evening, July 11, 1924, after a very severe illness for the past six months of nervous trouble and a diseased foot which finally resulted in gangrene.

In 1860 she was united in marriage to Samuel McClelland, who preceded her many years ago to the great beyond.

Of her immediate family she is survived by two sons, Wallace A. and George H. McClelland and one daughter, Della, wife of Arch Fox, eight grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren, two brothers, William F. and George B. Armstrong, all of near Laurelville and two sisters, Mrs. Susannah Wolfe, of Cridersville and Mrs. Minnie Kearns, of Lancaster.

She was the third daughter of William and Sarah Fetherolf Armstrong and was in her eightieth year.

The funeral services were conducted from the M. E. church at Laurelville by the Rev. J. R. Fields and Rev. C. L. Thomas. Interment was in Green Summit cemetery at Adelphi.

FIRE WATER

Chillicothe Boys in Jail and Two Gallons Moonshine Confiscated.

Donald Jones and Ralph Davis, two youths from Chillicothe, drove up to this city with a bunch of Ross county "bug juice" and got lost on the roads of Saltercreek township. The whisky they imbibed made them see things, but not correctly. Their vision was distorted to such a degree that when the car they were driving went thru a wire fence into a cornfield they just kept going round and round in circles. Sheriff Young was notified and accompanied by Deputy Irwin, he went down to the place designated and brought the boys in, together with two gallons of moonshine. The boys were locked up in jail.

AMUSEMENTS

The dictionary gives the definition of bashfulness as "shrinking modesty." But our definition, after viewing Harold Lloyd's latest Pathe comedy, "Girl Shy," at the Met theater yesterday is that bashfulness is decidedly a subject for expansive laughter. Bashful persons have always inspired us with pity for them, but when Lloyd is seen as a boy scared to death of the female sex, he makes the part one of riotous mirth.

Lloyd is indeed one comedian whose pictures are ever a delight to see, for the reviewer and the audience never knows what to expect of him in advance. After a series of clever characterizations and stories in the past, he once more proves his great versatility in "Girl Shy" by giving to the screen one of the most entirely novel types of hero it has ever had. The old adage that "there is nothing new in the movies" has been completely blasted at last. Lloyd definitely proves the untruth of the timeworn statement.

Conspicuous in his support is pretty Jobyna Ralston, who made such a hit with him in his last success, "Why Worry?" Jobyna brings to the screen a distinctive type of beauty, young, dainty and refreshing. Others in the cast are Richard Daniels and Carlton Griffin with the direction credited to Fred Newmeyer and Sam Taylor.

"Girl Shy" will remain at the Met theater till Wednesday and it is one of the few pictures that can be recommended heartily to those who like to "shop" for their entertainment. For it is certainly a gloom-chaser de luxe.

HUNT AMERICAN LORE OF 3,000 YEARS AGO

Morley Expedition to Yucatan Has High Hopes.

New Orleans.—Bent upon solving the mystery which surrounds the history of America during a period dating back 3,000 years, the Morley archeological expedition, sponsored by the Carnegie foundation, has plunged into the primeval country in the vicinity of Yucatan, Mexico. During their stay the party will keep in touch with New Orleans by radio and obtain their supplies from this port.

The party includes Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, one of the leading archeologists of the United States; Earl H. Morris, excavation expert; Mrs. Morris, Monroe Amsden and Mrs. Alma Reed. The latter, who is a newspaper woman, was engaged to marry Felipe Carillo, governor of Yucatan, when he was assassinated. She is making the trip largely because she knew Carillo was interested in the expedition, which was planned long before his death.

Stay Indefinite. The Morley party will spend an indefinite period in Mexico and will endeavor to probe the secrets of America's earliest civilization. More than 100 Maya Indians, descendants of tribes which once dominated southern Mexico, will remove the soil which has accumulated over ancient palaces and tombs of kings in the last 3,000 years.

Doctor Morley believes that riches far more valuable than those found in the tomb of King Tut, and even more interesting to Americans, will be revealed before the work of the expedition is completed. Although only the surface has been touched, priceless ornaments of jade have already been found. The meager records of the Mayas indicate they were a powerful tribe, with a civilization which, in a measure, challenges the grandeur that was Greece and the glory that was Rome.

To Restore Cities.

"It is of no significance whether we find gold or silver," said Doctor Morris. "Of course there is a romantic appeal in buried treasure, but we are going after something more important—and more valuable, too. Under our feet lie the buried cities of an almost vanished race. The Carnegie foundation will uncover and restore at least one of these cities, and perhaps two. "The scientific value of the work will be equalled only by the wonder of the American people when they realize what has happened on this continent before the white man came to the shores of America."

The Morley expedition is one of the best-equipped ever organized. While those who make up the party will be without some of the comforts of home, they have an outfit which will make their life luxurious, as compared with the experiences of archeologists even in the last decade.

Historic Salt Springs Slowly Disappearing

Springfield, Ill.—Gradual disappearance of the Gallatin county salines, believed to have been worked on by the Indians, is removing from Illinois one of its most historic spots. Jacob W. Myers, Harrisburg, who has made a study of the salt springs, states that there are now no memorials to mark the spot.

"Tradition has it that from time immemorial salt has been produced and manufactured at the springs in Gallatin county," Mr. Myers relates. "Around the region of the two principal springs, known as 'Hot-Spoon Dick' and 'Nigger Well,' is found a kind of pottery, the existence of which can be explained in no other way than that it may be fragments of large pots and kettles used in evaporating salt water.

"So little remains of the present site that the passerby would never know that he was on historic ground," says Myers. "About all that is left of 'Nigger Well' is a few decayed timbers in the old well, which is now practically filled up.

Buxton announces that he is seeking powers to prevent further outbreaks by scientific research as to the root cause of the outbreaks and their origin.

YOUNG MAN

KILLS SELF

Was Using Butt of Gun to Drive Sparrows From Bushes When Trigger Caught on Twig—Unfortunate Boy Lived Six Hours After Accident.

Cecil Hill, the nineteen year old son of Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Hill, of Stoutsville, shot and killed himself Tuesday evening while out shooting sparrows with a shot gun on the Charles Steely farm on the county line.

A full charge of shot entered his stomach just above the navel and tore a large jagged hole in the abdominal cavity and also perforated and cut several large arteries. His attending physicians Dr. Kefauver and Dr. Huddle, held out no hopes of his recovery, as the hemorrhage was so great and he survived only six hours, dying at midnight.

The accident occurred while holding the loaded gun in his right hand. He was driving some sparrows out of the bushes and was using the butt end of the gun to scare them from their hiding place and in pulling the weapon from the bushes a twig caught and pushed the trigger and it was discharged.

The young man a graduate of the 1924 Stoutsville high school class, was a good student and had many friends. He was known as "Snap" Hill among his school friends.

His father, Rev. L. E. Hill, was away from home attending an Evangelical convention and conference at Glenwood park near Cleveland, and did not reach home until 4 o'clock the next morning. Besides his parents, he leaves two brothers, Leonard and Russell. The family has lived in Stoutsville about six months.

FARM RELIEF

Pickaway Bureau and Granges Asked to Help Brothers.

The State Relief commission has asked the Pickaway Farm bureau and granges of Pickaway county to raise $800 for relief of those sections in northern Ohio devastated by the tornado passing over that district on Saturday, June 28. Buildings, woodlands and crops in the paths swept by the storm thru the rural districts are completely destroyed.

In most instances, the buildings are torn apart and scattered for hundreds of feet from their foundations. Farm machinery that was in these buildings cannot be used again. Livestock was either killed or crippled so badly that it is unfit for further use. Where woodlands were visited by these twisting currents, all the trees were blown down or twisted off. In several instances where the path of the storm ran parallel with the road, buildings on both sides were destroyed for miles.

Very few of the farmers in this district carried any tornado insurance. Those who did will not be benefited by these relief funds in any way. Of course, many of the farmers could stand these losses, but those tenant farmers and men on mortgaged farms who had everything they owned taken away in less than four minutes, are very badly crippled financially, because they had neither home nor employment after the storm.

The eight hundred dollars which the relief commission has asked us to raise, when distributed over the entire farming population of Pickaway county, means that it will take very little from each farm home to make up this quota. Any contribution, no matter how small, will be gladly accepted. It is sincerely hoped that the farmers of Pickaway county will respond to this appeal in helping our brother farmers to start over again with their farm work.

Hillsboro Firm Purchased Building, Stock and Good Will.

Business Was Established Many Years Ago and Had Several Changes of Ownership—New Proprietors Are Fairley Brothers of Hillsboro.

The Circleville Hardware company passed into the hands of a new ownership Tuesday, Fairley Brothers, of Hillsboro, taking over the business, good-will, stock and building of the company.

The active members of the firm J. B. Work, Miller Boyd Trout and L. E. Davidson together with the silent member of the firm, L. T. Shaner, retired.

The Circleville Hardware company is the continuation of the firm of Rutter, Wolfley & Rains and was formerly located on West Main street, starting in business back in the fifties. Later the business was purchased by C. Benford & Son and after being in business a number of years was purchased by B. F. Yates. Later it was the Secrest-Yates and then the Secrest-Shaner Hardware company. The stock was moved to its present location March 1, 1919, when the new building was purchased.

R. B. Fairley, the father of Fairley brothers, has been in the hardware business at Hillsboro for the past forty-five years and the resident manager of the firm has been associated with his father for the past thirteen years. Mr. Fairley is married and will move his family to this city to live. The new firm has retained Mr. Davidson as clerk.

Mr. Fairley is the second Hillsboro hardware merchant to locate in this city, the other being Elgar Barrere, of the firm of Barrere & Nickerson.

Deeds Count, Not Years.

In the olden time people sought the fountain of youth, and they thought that a draught of its water would enable them to live forever. But the best of life is not its length, not the chronological quantity of it. Better fifty years of the moving, pulsating, busy life of the present than all the dull centuries of Methuselah. What did he do with all his weary years? He had the reputation of having been the oldest man, and nothing to show for it.—Exchange.

Unlike Mayflower Pilgrims.

In 1731, on the 27th of September, a gang of 130 felons were taken from Newgate prison and put aboard ship to be transported to America to colonize the country. Later in the century England changed the destination of her transported criminals to Botany bay and favored America with shiploads of destitute people just discharged from the poorhouses.

Walter P. Chrysler Says-

The sweeping success of the good Maxwell is squarely due to the fact that it affords the most advanced engineering, at a price within reach of every one who can afford a car at all.

As in the Chrysler Six, scientific engineering has now produced such revolutionary results that unless a man at least tests them himself, he cannot be sure of securing the highest motoring satisfaction.

Maxwell's most recent development has to do with notable improvement in every phase of riding, driving and performance, economy and long life, and the reduction of vibration to a degree never before thought possible in a four.

One might think that the powerful bumblebee and the milkweed would make ideal partners, but such is not the case says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. ROUND WORLD IN AN AUTOMOBILE

The American Captain Wanderweil, his secretary and two chauffeurs, are making a trip around the world in two autos. The trip began on Sept. 22, 1919, from Atlanta, Ga. Captain Wanderweil, who has been through 23 lands, is now in Berlin. He is said to have made a huge bet in America that he would go all round the world without taking a penny of money with him or having any sent from home. He also does not accept any money from any auto manufacturers. He, with his companions, is to work his way round the globe.

SOME CAUSES FOR STARTER TROUBLE

In Case of Failure Battery Is First Thing to Suspect—Test Acid Solution.

To every motorist sooner or later there comes the unpleasant experience of stepping on the starter button and instead of the merry whirr of turning gears, being greeted by stony silence. It is scarcely remarkable that this occurs, indeed the wonder is that the starter holds up as well as it does under the abuse that it receives at the hands of the average car owner.

The starter system embodies the following units: A storage battery, the cables that connect the battery with the rest of the system, a switch for bringing the starter into action and, as a general thing, the frame of the car, which is used to return the current to the battery after it has turned over the engine.

Suspect Battery First.

In cases of starter failure the first thing to suspect is the battery, which supplies the current that operates the starter. Once a week during the active running season the battery must be filled to level with distilled water. The acid solution should be tested at these times with a hydrometer, showing the specific gravity of the solution. If this has fallen below 1.200 the battery is away below charge and must be recharged without delay. If the battery is permitted to become dry or to fall so low in charge that it cannot turn over the starter the cause of the failure is at once revealed.

The next things to suspect are the cables that connect the battery with the starter by way of the switch. While the trouble here is not so frequent, nevertheless insulation may wear through, setting up shorts that drain the battery and prevent the starter from doing its work. Occasionally, also, the switch goes out of business, but if the battery is proved to have adequate current and the cables are all right, examine the switch.

Lack of Lubrication.

Sometimes the starter motor itself goes out of business through mechanical failure or lack of lubrication. The starting motor is generally lubricated from the engine on one end and by a small oil hole in the other. The engine lubrication is automatic, but the oil hole requires a drop of oil every 500 miles of running.

The brushes and commutator of the starting motor do not need oil; in fact, if oil gets on these parts it is likely to stop the motor from operating. In this case the oil may be cleaned off by holding a small piece of fine sandpaper against the commutator while the motor is running.

From all this the car owner will get the obvious lesson that troubles in the starting system are best cured by reasonable care beforehand. Keep the battery up to its work, watch the cables for broken insulation. Give the starting motor the drop of oil it needs, and the starter will continue to whirr obediently to your foot pressure while the crank rests in idleness under the back seat.

STEERING ARMS CAUSE WEAR

One Reason Is That Wheels Are Not True, Especially When the Car Is Turned.

One reason for unusual wear on front tires, due to the wheels not being true, especially when the car is turned, is because the steering arms, extending from knuckle to tie rod, have been bent from a hard strain exerted on them by the wheels hitting a rut, bump or flaw in the road diagonally, or by some object striking the arms themselves. Naturally, the wheels will not both head in the same direction when one or both of these arms are sprung.

SOME KNOW DETAILS OF CARING FOR CAR

"Do It Yourself" Knowledge Lags Because of Stations.

How about tracing out trouble in the electrical circuits in your car, or correcting the timing of the motor, or grinding the valves? Could you do these things if either were necessary in an emergency?

Most garage men, and they are in position to know, believe that you are to be congratulated on your knowledge if you are one of the old-fashioned few who can do any of these things.

The long and short of it seems to be that the substantial construction of the car and its parts and the frequency of service stations makes all this "do it yourself" knowledge superfluous. The up-to-date driver, instead of loading up his memory with a mass of details, remembers only a few items of routine care—things that he must do to keep the car running smoothly and continuously. It is this sort of information that the industry has made popular.

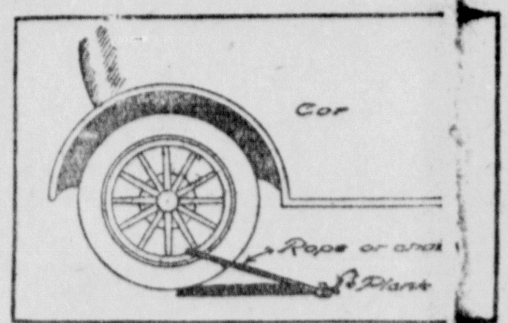

Hardly a day goes by in any garage or service station without their noting the effect of the educational work that has been done by the accessory manufacturers and car builders during the past few years. The storage battery in particular has received an unusual amount of attention.

There can be little doubt that the car owner owes a good deal of his satisfaction to the efforts of the manufacturer and his representatives who have taught him what to do to keep each part of his car in prime condition.

GETTING AUTO OUT OF MUD

Device Made of Plank Four Feet Long and One Foot Wide Is Useful in Emergency.

The Farm Journal in illustrating and describing a device to get a car out of mud hole, the inventor of Robert H. Neill of Ohio, says: "A device for getting the car out of the mud under its own power can be made from a plank about four feet long, one foot wide and two inches thick. A chain is fastened at two corners of plank, and when laid in front of the sunken wheel the chain is passed around one of the spokes as shown in diagram. By this means the car will climb up onto the plank and out of the mud hole.

"This device is not bulky and should be carried along as one of the most useful tools."

TROUBLE LAMP OF ODD TYPE

So Constructed That It Can Be Made to Adhere to Any Iron Part of Automobile.

No automobilist likes to be without a trouble lamp, and often when he has one he finds it difficult to place it where it will afford illumination at the seat of the trouble while his hands are occupied with tools. The newest type of trouble lamp has an electromagnet in the base, which is energized when the lamp is lighted, making it possible to stick it to any of the iron parts of the car.

Starting Made Easier.

Throw out the clutch when starter motor has to turn over the clutch countershaft gears, besides the engine itself. It is a heavy strain on battery.

Primitive Spoons

The origin of the spoon was very likely a shell fitted to a wooden or bone handle. Caddy spoons, which were only used after the custom of tea-drinking was well established, were nearly all with shell-shaped bowls, and were very small at first, to fit into the small caddy boxes and the small china cups, for tea was scarce and used in small quantities. Tea-drinking was not done on a large scale in England until the days of George II.

Woman

If a man is in grief, who cheers him? In trouble, who consoles him? In wrath, who soothes him? In joy, who makes him doubly happy? In prosperity, who rejoices? In disgrace, who backs him against the world, and dresses with gentle unguents and warm poultices the rankling wounds made by the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune? Who, but woman, if you please.—William Makepeace Thackeray.

Jealousy Proved Fatal to English Musician

Certainly the most destructive of human emotions is that of jealousy. With the exception of love and war nothing seems to be so provocative to the green-eyed monster, who seems to have the faculty of consuming all those who admit him to their souls, as music. A list of the famous musical jealousies would be interesting. It would run into the hundreds. Opera companies are usually nests of jealousy.

Possibly one of the most famous cases of musical jealousy is that of Henry Cooke, deceased (1672). Cooke was a fighter who gloried in the term of captain. He joined the king's army and fought bravely. It is said, but when the commonwealth came into existence he was obliged to make his living teaching music. Eventually he became gentleman and master of the children when the chapel royal was established again in 1690. There he had as his pupils no less than Purcell, John Blow and Pelham Humphrey. Humphrey so closely imitated the work of his master that after some time he was able to supplant him in his state position. Captain Cooke flew into a rage of jealousy, and this continued until in his death notice there appeared the significant line, "died of jealousy."

Great Statesman Had Genius of Invention

Thomas Jefferson, signer of the Declaration of Independence and third President of the United States, was of an inventive turn of mind as well as being a fairly good violinist and something of a scientist, remarks the Detroit News. On one of his tours of Europe he was struck by the bad construction of the plows in use by the peasants of France.

The moldboard, a device above the share to turn over the earth, he decided, required redesigning. He spent the greater part of his leisure time for two years evolving a moldboard that would be most effective.

Satisfied, at length, that he had succeeded, Jefferson sent a plow equipped with his new device to the Royal Agriculture Society of the Seine. A medal which the society awarded him—for the plow proved to be all he had hoped for—followed him to New York, and 18 years later, the society sent him a specially made plow containing his improvement as a token of appreciation for what he had done for agriculture in France.

"Cates" Word Little Used

The word "cates," meaning dainty foods, is probably never used except in poetry, and seldom there, yet we call the person who caters for our food a caterer, and in that form the word is of everyday occurrence.

It has come into some prominence lately in connection with the fifth centenary celebrations of the famous Dick Whittington, whose fame rests more solidly on his possession of a cat than upon any municipal honors which came to him, observes London Tit-Bits.

There have been all manner of learned discussions as to Whittington's cat, one of which pointed to the probability that this city merchant had a ship called the Cat. But the late Professor Rowley of Bristol was perfectly sure that "cat" was an abbreviation of this old English word "cate," meaning provisions, which survives, even in our geography, in the Cate river at Plymouth.

Seems So

On the very day that a man has set to inaugurate his plan of personal improvement something happens to prevent it. He has to begin some other day.

Simply Couldn't

Dorothy, aged five, had been given a pretty blue-silk sash and the first day she wore it she was constantly running to her mother to have it tied. "Why, Dorothy," said her mother, "This makes the fifth time I've tied your sash this morning. You must learn to tie it yourself."

"But how can I, mamma," replied the little miss, "when I'm standing around in the front all the time?"

Clock Made of Glass

SOCIAL CALENDAR

The Salem W. C. T. U., held its July meeting at the home of Mrs. Clarence Dumm with seventeen members and five visitors present. One new member was added to the union. The meeting was opened by singing "The World is Going Dry" followed by scripture reading and prayer. After the business session leaflets were read by Miss Georgia Hall and Mrs. Otis Leist. The union was favored by recitations by little Miss Betty Jane Evans, Virginia and Margaret Morris and a solo by Miss Isabelle Snyder. The program closed with the benediction. It was then decided to have a family picnic supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Evans on Friday evening, August 8. During the social hour a delightful luncheon was served by Mrs. Dumm and daughter, Geneva.

The Queen Esther Sunday school class of the Methodist Episcopal church with their teacher, Mrs. Fred Nicholas, picnicked at Scippo creek Tuesday afternoon. There were twelve children in the party and all had a most enjoyable time.

Mrs. Frank J. Bennett entertained to a dinner bridge Tuesday in honor of her sister, Mrs. Donald Parsons Smith, of Toledo; Mrs. T. D. Harman Jr., of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Mrs. Willard Story, of Washington C. H., and Mrs. Coit Blacker of Columbus.

The Women's Business and Professional club held a business meeting and picnic at the Phillips farm near Scippo Tuesday evening.

The Wednesday Evening club will entertain this evening at the home of Mrs. Edward Valentine, Northridge road.

Mrs. George Foresman entertained to a luncheon bridge at her home Tuesday.

Misuse of Mails Alleged.

Pittsburgh, July 16.—Postoffice Inspector George Craighead was notified of the arrest in New York of Harry Newman, son of John Henry Newman of Columbus, former Ohio state librarian, on a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. The charge was filed against Newman, according to the inspector, in connection with the sale of stock in Bettys Folks, Inc., broom manufacturers.

Homeopathy School Planned.

Cleveland, July 16.—Plans are being made for a $3,000,000 national school of homeopathy to be conducted jointly with the new homeopathic hospital to be built on the Forest Hill estate of John D. Rockefeller in East Cleveland. It was announced here by Dr. Lester E. Siemon, president of the American Institute of Homeopathy.

New Secretary to Warden.

Columbus, July 16.—William H. Payne of Columbus was named private secretary to Warden Preston E. Thomas of the penitentiary. Payne succeeds F. O. Howell, who completed seven years' service as secretary to the warden.

Killed in Gun Battle.

Halifax, N. S., July 16.—A gun battle starting in the forests of Dutch Village, near here, in which one policeman, Stephen Kennedy, was killed and another probably fatally wounded, culminated in the arrest of William Bevis, his sister, Florence; Robert Slaughterwhite and his sister Ethel. The shooting started when Frank Longard, a cottager, reported to the police that he discovered the men and women making off with a camper's outfit.

Defense Test Attacked.

Columbus, July 16.—Protest against the defense test, scheduled by the war department for Sept. 12, was made by the Ohio council of churches in a letter sent by Executive Secretary B. F. Lamb to Secretary of War Weeks. The letter expressed "deep concern" over this test, intended as a demonstration of the country's facilities for mobilization in time of war, and suggested that our need was a mobilization for peace rather than a mobilization for war.

Civilization in Korea.

History for many years B. C. tells us that the people of Korea were among the highest in genuine civilization. About the year 1597 a general by the name of Li built the first iron fleet, composed of wooden circular vessels with iron plates on top, studded with iron teeth. Because of the prosperity of the Korean nation, Japan was extremely jealous, and had therefore brought 700 boats in battle array. However, Li, with his 50 boats, succeeded in inflicting a disastrous defeat upon the Japanese.

Tree Trunks Made Cisterns.

The gigantic baobab tree of central Africa, the trunk of which sometimes attains a diameter of forty feet, often serves as a natural cistern, retaining rain-water in large quantities in a cavity formed at the top of the broad trunk. Taking the hint thus afforded by nature, the Arabs artificially hollow out the huge baobabs and fill them with water during the prevalence of rains, as a provision against the dry season. These cisterns are in many cases twenty feet in height and eight or ten feet in diameter.

"When You Are in Rome," Etc.
The saying is taken from St. Ambrose's advice to St. Austin in regard to Sabbath keeping. He says to St. Austin: "When I am in Rome I fast as the Romans do; when I am in Milan I do not fast. So likewise you; whatever church you come to, observe the custom of the place, if you would neither give offense to others, nor take offense from them."
